

Health Reveals Winners of Third Annual Sleep Awards

Winners include Casper, Brooklinen, Sleep Number and More

NEW YORK, Oct. 31, 2022 /PRNewswire/ -- Today, Health released its third annual Sleep Awards honoring the 30 top products for a good night's sleep, spanning categories that include mattresses, blankets, gadgets, and more. As Americans have reported an increase in problems sleeping since the start of the pandemic<sup>1</sup>, the Health Sleep Awards guide readers through the latest items available to find the best options to fit their patterns and preferences for optimal sleep health. The full list can be viewed online at Health.com.

"We know sleep is an integral part of a complete wellness routine – a recommended 7-9 hours of sleep is essential to heart health, supports immune function, improves mood, and more," said Katrina Chernoff, General Manager of Health. "This year's Health Sleep Awards recognize the products helping people improve the quality of their sleep and provide our readers with a guide to the best products for their individual nighttime needs."

To select this year's top sleep products, Health editors researched and reviewed over 200 products and worked with a panel of medical professionals and an interior designer, who provided professional insights and personal recommendations on how to get a deep and comfortable rest. In addition, readers will find information on why sleep is important to health, how much sleep an average adult needs, and risks associated with not having enough sleep.
